

Comments on segments

translate5 captures comments in a column of its own within the table structure of the segment editor. As all other columns, too, the segments of a project can be filtered or sorted in translate5 on the basis of the comment column. For example, all segments with comments can be displayed on top - or only those segments with comments of a specific user can be displayed.

Each comment shows, which user created the comment and when. This is also filterable.

Your own comments can be edited or deleted at any time.

Commenting of locked and blocked segments

Locked and blocked segments can be commented by the user, if the system configuration allows it. How to enable this feature, please look at Database based configuration.

If a task is read-only for a user, segments can never be commented, regardless of this configuration.
